

Minty's alternative ending

Glancing across the clearing in front of Mrs Brodas' house, I caught sight of a horse tied up to a tree. I looked around to check that nobody would see me and sprinted across towards the horse however the door to the Brodas' house slowly opened. My hands started to shake as Mr Brodas emerged, talking to his friend. Dashing towards the nearest bush, I quickly dived in to make sure they didn't see me. A few minutes later they went back into the house, was this my chance? My heart was beating like a drum as I ran to the horse and pulled at the knot consequently it freed the horse. Silently, trying not to make a sound, I climbed on to the horse and kicked hard to make it run.
